NEW YORK NEWS LETTER

Captain Dooley's curfew law in the "Tenderloin," seems to be of few nights and full of trouble. In prescribing that no woman should appear on the streets after 10 o'clock, the captain overlooked the fact that many honest women are compelled to be abroad later than that hour. This fact the Rev. Mr. Schwingen, rector of St. Francis of Assisi, a church right in the very center of the tainted district, was well aware of, and so, to protect his parishioners, he issued a card of identification to every lady of his flock, certifying that she was well known to him as a lady of good character and righteous living, and a true and sincere worshiper. In his church, Captain Dooley found it best to drop interference with such ladies after being caught several times holding up church members who had as much right on the streets as Dooley or any of his officers. Then Magistrate Mayo discharged a bunch of twenty-six brought in by Dooley's subordinates, and the curfew law was done for.

Wadiso Boroughski, of Secaucus, over in Jersey, not far from the Metropolis, was so fond of kissing his best girl that he was paid her at every opportunity. Miss Chuski liked him very much, and doubtless also liked the kisses, until Wadiso delayed her so much that many dinners were burned while Wadiso was hugging her in a corner. When she found the dinner was too hot, her father grew cold, and she hated Wadiso before Judge Miller. She declared her lover kissed her sometimes a hundred times a day. It would have gone hard with Wadiso had not his lawyer proposed a compromise, which comprised an agreement on the part of Wadiso that he would never kiss her more than ten times a day, if she would withdraw the suit and marry him. Miss Chuski agreed to this, and Justice Miller drew up with dignity and Wadiso signed with avidity an agreement that he would not kiss her more than five times in the morning and five times in the afternoon before supper. The marriage was then and there performed, but Mrs. Boroughski did not agree to ask for any more than ten kisses a day.

The arrest of a trained nurse for stealing several thousand dollars worth of silver from the St. Regis Hotel has led the proprietors of several high class hotels to move for protection. They say that the amount of those peculiarities is fearful, and constitutes a great drag upon their enterprises. It is stated that silverware to the value of $15,000 is annually put down to loss in this way, thousands of towels and millions of quires of stationery being also carried away.

Charles A. Dana's noted country place, Desorais, with its world renowned arboretum, has been sold to a "Standard Oil" man. Dana spent thousands of dollars yearly on this place, and the world was searched for rare trees, which were made to grow, albeit they were brought from other climates, by the skill of experts in acclimating trees. As Dana's knowledge in every line to which he paid attention was most thorough and went to the very bottom of things, Desorais became a veritable little paradise.

Henry Hasselberg, 60 years old, applied President Roosevelt's race suicide theory to a novel use in the Children's Court this week by securing the release of his son from a fine for throwing a stone. He appeared to the magistrate's feelings in an irresistible way by pleading that a father with so many children as he had, could hardly be expected to pay fines when he could scarcely provide them with food and lodging. The magistrate asked him how many children he had. "Twenty-three, your honor," replied Hasselberg, without the slightest hesitation. "The fine will be remitted," said the magistrate. "Any man with a family like that deserves consideration." But Hasselberg's imagination was more expansive than his family. He imposed upon the magistrate with seventeen unborn babes, for when he called the roll of his flock he could muster only six.

The New York board of education is paying attention to the "under dog" in the battle of life. It has set apart a school especially for the education of children who have never had a fair chance; children who have always been abused. Such as these, always strangers to kindness, grow up with the idea that the world is against them and they slide away from the prospective blows; they shrink from anybody who takes notice of them; they look upon society as their natural and eternal enemy; hence they become the eternal enemies of society, expecting nothing at its hands, and contributing nothing to its welfare.

PAINFUL PERIODS

Suggestions How to Find Relief from Such Suffering.

White no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering. It does not seem to be the pain of nature that women should suffer so severely. Menstruation is a severe strain on a woman's vitality. If it is painful or irregular something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to a serious derangement of the whole female organism.

More than fifty thousand women have testified in grateful letters to Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes painful periods, irregular menstruation, and it provides a safe and sure way of escape from distressing and dangerous weaknesses and diseases.

The two following letters tell so convincingly what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for women, they cannot fail to bring hope to thousands of sufferers.

Miss Nellie Holmes of 540 N. Davidson Street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham—Your medicine is indeed an ideal medicine for women. I suffered misery for years with painful periods, headaches, and bearing-down pains. I consulted two different physicians but failed to get any relief. A friend from my husband's family told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and no longer suffer as I did before. My periods are natural; every ache and pain is gone, and my general health is much improved. I advise all women who suffer to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Tillie Hart, of Larimore, N. D., writes: "I might have been spared many months of suffering and pain but I only knew of the efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills."
